LET'S WALK
by Ted Miller

If you visit Thornville, California on September 30th, you'll probably wonder why so many people are walking through the town. The reason is that September 30th is "Let's Walk Day" in Thornville. Almost all of the 10,000 people who live in this small town take part in a 10 kilometer walk.

5 Five years ago, the local children's hospital needed to raise money. There was not enough money to buy toys and games for the sick children, so they asked the local businessmen to help them. The businessmen talked to the high school principal. The principal decided to organize a 10 kilometer walk through town to raise money for the hospital. The businessmen agreed to give the hospital $20 for every child or 10 adult taking part in the walk.

When the pupils' parents heard about the walk, they decided to help the hospital too. They joined their children on the walk. On September 30th, 1998, hundreds of children and their parents began walking.

15 Since then, every year on September 30th in Thornville, "Let's Walk" raises money for a different project in the town. Last year, the walk raised money for a school basketball court and swimming pool. Next year, the walk will raise money for a new library. So if you want to exercise for a good cause – put on your shoes and come to Thornville.
